"It was most delightful to see your President again. He is a grand man. I had the great pleasure of meeting him on the occasion of the Rochambeau statue unveiling two years ago, and I assure you I admire him very much. His friendship with President Loubet pleases our country greatly. That the Presidents of the two greatest republics of the world hold equally high opinions of one another pleases my countrymen, I can assure you."

Commissioner General Lagrave will return to this country about August I and go direct to St. Louis. The auspiclous opening of the French pavilion and the visit there of Miss Roosevelt afford much satisfaction to M. Lagrave, and a glowing report to President Loubet is in prospect.

"PARKER, NOMINEE AND PRESIDENT"

So Says James Eichardson, of Alabama.

HEARST IS OF NO ACCOUNT

Believes Bryan and Doubtful States Will Fall in Line-McClellan Out of Question.

"Parker will be the nominee, and, it is my honest opinion, the Democrats will win in the coming election." The speaker was Representative Jame

Richardson of Alabama, who was accosted by a group of newspaper men as he left the White House this morning. "You know, I was a Parker man in the Fifty-seventh Congress," continued Mr. Richardson. "I thought then, and I think now, that he is the most available and best fitted man in the party, and one well qualified to carry the banner to victory. I was also the original advocate of Williams, of Illinois, for Vice President. I made this nomination als in the Fifty-seventh Congress."
"But your delegation is not instructed for Parker," he was reminded.

Better Than Instructions.

"You may hold me responsible for that," said the only Alabama member of Congress on his State delegation, and who was elected a delegate-at-large twenty-four hours after announcing his candidacy. "I did not want the dele gation bound up to that extent. passed the unit rule, and as eighteen out of the twenty-four delegates are Par-ker men, first and last, it is easy to see where our entire vote will be cast. On the other hand, if, as I do not think probable, or hardly possible, the convention should get in a tangle, and it should be impossible to nominate Par-ker, the Alabama delegation is then free to go wherever the majority thinks free to go wherever the majority thinks best. I think this better than instructions, don't you?"

"What of the profound silence of Judge Parker, which has been made the subject of so much adverse-criticism? Is it prompted by a desire to present a contrast to the vociferousness of certain candidates on the other ticket?"

Bryan and free silver as anyone in the party—as hearty a supporter as I am now on the other side. I hope and believe that Mr. Bryan will do the graceful and proper thing when he finds he cannot control the situation at the convention. There are many great qualities in the man. If he does not rise to the occasion, he were better out of the party than in it.

"Mr. Hearst is not discussed in Alabama. He has announced his intention of abiding by the decision of the convention. He will not have a third of the delegates, and, as I believe. Parker will be nominated on the second or third ballot, as soon as the favorite son business is over, I do not see where Mr. Hearst will be in a position to do anything with his supporters.

Not for McClellan.

"Mr. McCiellan I admire very much. I think there are bright things in store New York to take official action. That were unable to move. Then, as those official action was taken in the only proper and who were uninjured, they saw that the leading to the recognized manner—through the State of the recognized manner—through the recognized manner—thro dence, and Cripple Creek.

"I am out of my jurisdiction, and con sequently powerless to give instructions to my associates in Colorado right now. This does not weigh on me, however, as I believe they will do all that I could if were there personally to administer affairs."

Governor Peabody was almost jubilant over the opinion of the supreme court. "I have contended all along," he said, "that I had the right to suspend said, "that I had the right to suspend writs of habeas corpus in case of riots or insurrection. This is the first time the supreme court ever sustained this idea, although it has been idvanced any number of times. Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln, all tried to suspend writs of habeas corpus on occasions during their Administrations, but their action never was sustained."

The governor will leave here this afternoon for Denver.

PREMEDITATED AFFAIR ALLEGED

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 7.- That the lynamite tragedy of vesterday, in which more than a dozen miners met their death, was premeditated was proved less than an hour after it had occurred. On the edge of the chasm blown into the earth a revolver was found dangling at the end of a wire, which was 300 feet long and ran to a mine cribbing. where it was attached to a chair rung. Into at least two hundred pounds of dynamite a bullet had been fired and the explosion had followed.

Bitter Feeling Existed.

Independence is six miles from Cripole Creek and there are the Last Dollar mines of Shurtleff, Findley & Co. Their employes are non-union men, against whom there was much bitter feeling on the part of the union strikers. It has been only in the last two months that the men have been able to venture outside the mine propert; in safety. But the two months' quie brought about by troops and the citi-zens' organizations reassured them, and

Story of a Miner.

H. P. Vanatta, a Findley miner, who had a narrow escape, says:

"The earth seemed to heave under the platform and the station. The noise made was deafening. We had been at the station about two minutes when the explosion occurred. I was thrown seventy-five feet.

"A score of miners from the Shurtloff shaft were hurrying down the hill to the station. Had these men reached the platform the casualty list would have been doubled. There must have been 300 pounds of explosive used, and it must have been set off by an electric spark or a revolver, as the miners would have smelled a fuse if one had been used."

The wire led 300 nundred feet away to the cribbing of the Delmonico Mine, where its other end

The rest was plain. In the darkness the dynamite was placed under the plat-form, with the muzzle of the revolver touching one of the sticks. The chair rung planted in the earth kept the weapon straight when the trigger was pulled.

Sought "Last Dollar" Mon.

There was no intention to kill the train crew or the miners picked up at other stations. Only the "Last Dollar" men were sought. Had there been another minute's delay fifty more men would have been on the platform and the death list would have been longer but, thinking to save the train, man at the other end of the wire had not waited that moment.

not waited that moment.

Who this man was or who were with him is not known now, else even the military could not restrain the orderly element from inflicting summary vengeance. Ail that is known is that immediately after the explosion a man was seen passing in the darkness.

It is believed the same man or set of men who exploded the bomb in the Victor mine last summer are responsible for the latest act. The weapon and methods were entirely similar.
